Dedication

To

Dr. H. C. Bahuson, M. D.

whose devoted service and interest in connection with "Salem" has long been felt, this tenth volume of

"Sights and Insights"

is affectionately dedicated by the Class of

Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen

DR. H. T. BAHNSEN

Sights and Insights

THE unexpected honor of appearing in your Class Annual is gratefully appreciated. My long association with you has ripened into a friendship which will go with you to your homes, however distant these may be.

It has been a great pleasure to win your esteem in the hopeful morning of your life. May its day be long, and bright with the sunshine of health and happy usefulness; and may its evening glow with content and good cheer.

HENRY T. BAINSON, M. D.

Sights and Insights

Forewarning!

We present our Annual to you with the hope that it will serve as a reminder of college scenes and friends. So that when the years that tend to blot out memories have stolen by, you may turn to this and recall that part of your life spent within the walls of our Alma Mater.

MARY BLANCHE ALLEN

REIDSVILLE, N. C.

"Such sweet computation doth in music lie."

Blanche—very musical, so this accounts for her never joining our non-musical discussions at "Annex."

Entered "Salem" 1911; Hesperian Literary Society Secretary, 1914-'15; Historian, 1914-'15; Red Ribbon Gossiper Club; Tar Heel; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 1914-'15.

CAROLINE MARIE BRIETZ

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

*"One who, to all the heights of learning bred,
Read books and man, and practic'd what she read."*

We can always depend on Marie to be on time—and when she speaks we all wonder!!

Vice-President, 1911-'12, 1913-'14; Entered 1911-'12.

Sights and Insights

LOUISE CARROLL BUSHONG

MORRISTOWN, TENN.

*"She walks the centers like a thing of life,
And seems to dance the elements to sleep."*

"Bush" is always "on the job"—we can count on her to enter the innumerable events during the year and put an end to conflicts in a very justifiable and dignified manner.

Entered 1911-'12; Basket-Ball Team, 1913-'14 and 1914-'15; Business Manager The Log; Advertising Editor Annual; President of Class, 1914-'15.

LOLA FRANCES BUTNER

BETHANIA, N. C.

"Where the stream cometh smoothest, the water is deepest."

Never has she been on class, "exams," or anywhere else that she could not give you the exact time, place, when, and why in the author's words. She possesses that great power of concentration and studiousness mainly.

Entered 1911-'12; European Literary Society; Tar Deel Club.

Sights and Insights

ELLA REA CARROLL

BURLINGTON, N. C.

"I am in earnest; I will not equivocate; I will not excuse; I will not retreat a single inch; I will be heard!"

"Rea" we can sure count on to have her views fully and emphatically expressed in the topics of the day before the discussion ends, else we hear it—later. She is very ambitious, and her acts are always dignified by the doer's deeds.

MARY ELIZABETH DAVIS, Δ Σ Δ

SALISBURY, N. C.

"I have set myself upon a cast, and I will stand the hazard of the die."

"Libba," we have heard, by her curiosity learns many more things than if she did not possess this trait, though we believe she gains practically all of this knowledge through her host of friends and admirers. She catches on to things like "lightning."

Entered Freshman 1911-'12; Class Treasurer, 1912-'13; Enterprise Literary Society; Member Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 1912-'13; Treasurer of Y. W. C. A., 1914-'15; Sponsor Enterprise Literary Society, 1914-'15; Club Editor Annual; Exchange Editor of Try; Tar Heel; Bandana Gang; Good Hon Club.

Sights and Insights

ANNIE MARIE EFIRD

POLKTON, N. C.

*"I must mix myself with action,
Lest I wither by despair."*

In years to come we can recall a vivid picture of Annie "crocheting," no matter whether under unfavorable circumstances or vice versa. She is noted for her perseverance, and that leads to noble deeds.

Entered 1912-'13; Member European Literary Society; Tar Heel Club; Domestic Art.

CHLOE HOLT FREELAND

BURLINGTON, N. C.

"Her voice was ever soft, gentle, and low—an excellent thing in a woman."

Chloe is certainly our "blushing rose." Her opinions and judgments are very trustworthy, though seldom expressed. She is extremely modest, and in future years we shall no doubt see a noble woman.

Entered 1912-'13; European Literary Society; Treasurer, 1914-'15; Tar Heel; Red Ribbon Gossiper; Y. W. O. A. Cabinet, 1914-'15.

Sights and Insights

DOROTHY SOPHIA GAITHER

MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

*"She only is a well made woman,
Who has a good determination."*

Through all our lives we are constantly running up against admirable people who can attain what they set out to do. "Dot" has this ability, so be on the lookout for a great leader with many true friends.

Entered 1911-'12; Vice-President of Class, 1912-'13; President of Class, 1913-'14; Prophet, 1914-'15; Reporter Enterpean Literary Society, 1914-'15; President Enterpean Literary Society, 1915; Tar Heel Club.

JANE HADEN GAITHER

MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

"Make haste, the better foot before thee."

Poets always have great "write-ups" when they become famous, though we shall disregard this for future writers where volumes can be written, for she is on the road to success. Jane Haden, we feel sure, will not be late for a poet's license.

Entered 1911-'12; Class Poet, 1915; Enterpean Literary Society; Tar Heel Club.

Sights and Insights

ANNIE JAMES HADLEY

MOUNT AERY, N. C.

"It is the promise of knowledge to speak, and it is the privilege of wisdom to listen."

"Jimmie" is a true diplomat. Intuition tells her that silence in an argument is the best policy. Therefore, she is the possessor of a large host of friends and admirers.

Entered 1912-'13; Class Poet, 1913-'14; Member of Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; Senior Marshal, 1913-'14; Assistant Editor of Try, 1913-'14; Vice-President of Y. W. C. A., 1914-'15; Editor-in-Chief of Try, 1914-'15; President of Hesperian Literary Society, 1914-'15; Business Manager of STARS AND INSIGHTS, 1914-'15; Bandana Gang; Collision Club; Tar Heel Club.

ROSE ELIZABETH HAWKINS

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

"I never knew so young a body with so old a head."

Although not joining our class until the Senior year, Rose stored up, during her previous education, an unfathomable amount of knowledge. She is a walking reference for the classics, and can discuss all modern problems.

Entered 1912-'13; Hesperian Literary Society; Senior Tar Heels.

Sights and Insights

JANIE JOHNSTON

VANCEVILLE, N. C.

"Friends are the sweetest jewels for kings, gold in time does wear away, and other precious things do fade—friendship will never decay."

For past history of "Salem" go to Janie. Her entrance to these halls of learning dates back six years, and she graduates with not only a diploma for academic work but a thorough understanding of the inside track at "Salem."

Entered 1909-10; Bandana Gang; Hesperian Literary Society.

SUSANNE WALKER JONES

RALEIGH, N. C.

"Full of wise saws and modern instances."

Friends, behold an ambitious woman! If talking can do it, she will get there. "Susie" has an unusual mind, is practical, but wants tact.

Entered 1912-13; Basket Ball Team, 1912-13, 1913-14, 1914-15; Literary Editor of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Literary Editor of Ivy; Critic of Hesperian Literary Society, 1914; Senior Tar Heel Club.

Sights and Insights

SADIE JOSEPHINE MONTGOMERY

BURLINGTON, N. C.

*"Gentle in personage,
Conduct, and equipage;
Noble by heritage,
Generous and true."*

If looking for friendship, loyalty, and good fellowship, we direct you to "Snooks," for she possesses them all. But be careful not to hurt her feelings!

Entered 1912-'13; Basket-Ball Team, 1912-'13, 1914-'15; Captain of Class Team, 1914-'15; Vice-President of Enterprise Literary Society, 1914-'15; Literary Editor of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS, 1914-'15; Far Heel Club; Bandana Gang; Cotillion Club.

LILLIAN MAE NICKELS, B Φ

BRISTOL, TENN.

*"Oh, I could play the woman with mine eyes
And huggart with my tongue."*

No one understands her disposition—not even those who know her best. It is not necessary, though, to more than pass her to realize that she is a daughter of the gods. "Nick" is pretty, even in "curlers."

Entered 1911-'12; Senior Marshal, 1911-'12; Club Editor of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Bandana Gang; Cotillion Club.

Sights and Insights

LOTTIE PAULINE PINKSTON

WADESBORO, N. C.

"They're only truly great who are truly good."

Pauline's retiring nature enables only a few of us to be acquainted with her personality, but (for the benefit of outsiders) she has one, strong and reliable.

Entered 1912-'13; Secretary of Class, 1914-'15; Secretary of Euterpean Literary Society, 1914-'15; Literary Editor of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Tar Heel Club.

CAROLINE PORTER ROBINSON, B Φ

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

"Your eyes are so sharp that you can not only look through a milestour, but clear through the mind."

Caroline came South with Yankee blood in her veins—now she has become so Southernized that she can stand up with good grace when "Dixie" is played. She possesses a few virtues, such as tastefulness, foresightedness, and a knowledge of all things.

Entered 1911-'12; President of Class, 1911-'12; Marshal, 1912-'13; Class Basket-Ball Team, 1913-'14; Tennis Championship, 1913; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 1913-'14; Class Historian, 1913-'14; President of Euterpean Literary Society, 1914-'15; Literary Editor of Trix; Editor-in-Chief of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Pandana Gang; Cotillion Club; Glee Club, 1912-'13.

Sights and Insights

JULIA LOUISE ROSS

WADESBORO, N. C.

*"There is a magic indeed which says—
Friendship can only exist between equals."*

Louise acts quietly, but emphatically. For another side of her nature, try to persuade her to see something she is opposed to. We will say no more for fear of mixing her characteristics with Dorothy's.

Entered 1912-'13; Treasurer of Class, 1913-'14; Secretary of Y. W. C. A., 1914-'15; Assistant Business Manager of SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Treasurer of Hesperian Literary Society; Tar Heel Club.

GLADYS LOWERY RAMSAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

"A friend is never known till a person here need."

Another in whose lengthy course at "Salem" many things have come to pass. "Girls have come and girls have gone," but Gladys now ends her "forever."

Entered 1910-'11; Hesperian Literary Society; Bandana Gang.

Sights and Insights

RACHEL REYNOLDS ROYALL

ELKIN, N. C.

"The noblest mind the best contentment has."

Rachel is admired by all; how could one do otherwise? Hers is a pleasant disposition, a kind heart, and a quantity of conscientiousness.

Entered 1912-'13; Vice-President of Class, 1914-'15; Critic of European Literary Society, 1914-'15; Pianist of Y. W. C. A., 1914-'15; Tar Heel Club.

CORA B REDDING

ASHEBORO, N. C.

*"O star-eyed Science! hast thou wandered then
To waft us home a message of despair?"*

Have you ever known a person who possesses that ready dry wit and appreciable sense of humor? Cora has both, and keeps her own disposition, as well as ours, in good spirits.

Censor of European Literary Society; Tar Heel Club.

Sights and Insights

CLAUDIA ELIZABETH SENTELL, B. Φ

DIXIE, LA.

"For my quiet, I have lost it with hallooing and singing of anthems."

A most phlegmatic human being is "Sentell," but it is a gift. Always cheerful, how could one help but love her?

Entered 1911-'12; Class Basket-Ball Team,
1911-'12; Sub-Varsity Basket-Ball Team, 1911-'12;
Captain of Class Basket-Ball Team, 1912-'13;
Secretary of Class, 1913; Vice-President of Athletic Association, 1913-'14; Marshal, 1913-'14;
Club Editor SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS; Advertising
Editor of Tris; Bandana Gang; Cotillon Club;
Enterpean Literary Society.

ANNIE LEONARD TYSON, B. Φ

GREENVILLE, N. C.

*"And looks commencing with the skies,
Thy rapt soul sitting in thine eyes."*

Anne just naturally acquired the name of "Class Baby," but this does not mean that she is not destined for great things. Her eyes may win her the presidency of the United States or the position of a farmer's wife.

Entered 1912-'13; Treasurer of Class, 1915;
Basket-Ball Team, 1914-'15; Vice-President of Hesperian Literary Society, 1914; President of Hesperian Literary Society, 1915; Bandana Gang;
Tar Heel Club.

GERTRUDE LEONORA VOGLER

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

"Come, give us a taste of your quality."

Gertrude has decided opinions, and can give them in a loud voice. She has a modest disposition, but we all feel after approaching her that we have gained something.

Entered 1907-'08; Class Secretary, 1912-'13; European Literary Society, 1914-'15; Tar Heel Club.

LOUISE MORTON VOGLER

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

*"To know
That which before us lies in daily life
Is the prime wisdom."*

If you did not go home week-ends we might know you better. Although small, Louise makes her presence felt, which is cheerful and pleasant.

Entered 1907; Class Secretary, 1911-'12; European Literary Society; Tar Heel Club.

Sights and Insights

MILDRED WILCOX

"Seems to me that you are in some brown study."

Mildred is slow of speech, but we know this is because she weighs her words. Ask her "Why does a hen cross the road?" or "The theory of recapitulation," and she answers intelligently.

Entered 1912-'13; Member Hesperian Literary Society.

LOUISE BAHNSEN WILLIAMS

"Order is heaven's first law."

Louise, you surprise us by being among the elect, but persistency got you here, and it is a noble virtue—keep on, you can do more with that same virtue.

Entered 1911-'12; Hesperian Literary Society; Art Editor of Annual.

History of the Class of 1915

WE, the Class of 1915, think that our history is the most remarkable that has ever occurred within the walls of Salem College. One point worthy of note is that we leave behind us no traces of our former room companies. This may be better understood when we consider that the Fourth Room passed with our Sophomore year, and the Junior Room was remodeled and divided at the end of our Junior year. It now remains to be seen what Senior Annex will be used for next year. We have had the usual succession of happy as well as sorrowful days in our journey thus far, and it is my privilege now to recount some of them to you.

On September 20, 1911, our class first met as members of the college department. To most of us the work was entirely new, and it took us some time to adapt ourselves to new conditions; but we did so, and began to study very hard. One thing which we will always remember was the botany walks which we never failed to take on Monday morning if the weather was suitable.

The first big event of our Freshman year was Thanksgiving Day, when we were to play basket-ball against the Sophomores. We began gathering yells, which we practiced very faithfully. When the eventful day came, though we were defeated, we felt that we had at least done our share of yelling.

It was soon time to go home for the Christmas holidays, and the excitement and happy anticipation can well be imagined.

In the spring we went to Flat Rock, accompanied by our botany teacher, on our class picnic. We did not spend a very happy day, as we had to sit most of the time while she read to us; and, to add still more to our discomfort, the lunch was scarce.

But we soon forgot this unpleasant day in the preparation for our first commencement. Everything passed off pleasantly, and we began to realize that we were "green young Freshmen" no longer.

When we returned in September, we entered the Sophomore Class, we found that our work as Freshmen was nothing in comparison with what we had to do as Sophomores. In English, the Shakespearean plays, which we took up, were so numerous that often, when we went to class, we wondered if we had studied the right one for that day, or were we a week behind. Chemistry was our bugbear, and having three different teachers during the year made it doubly hard for us.

Sights and Insights

On Thanksgiving Day we won our first victory in basket-ball, over the Freshmen, and were naturally very much elated.

Remembering our experience of the previous year we did not care to try a class picnic again, and, as the year drew to a close, we began to look forward to the time when we would be Juniors.

We look back on our Junior year as being a very happy one, though we had to work as hard as we ever did before on account of the standard being continuously raised. The hardest part, of course, fell on us, as usual, and sometimes we felt almost ready to give up—but we didn't.

Most of our teachers were new this year. We began reciting under Bishop Rondthaler, and also had a new science teacher, Miss Waller, and under her we struggled through the difficult mazes of physics. We took up the study of analytics, and found it to be not so easy as some of our earlier studies.

At the usual basket-ball games on Thanksgiving we were defeated, but, that night, the very enjoyable banquet, consisting of a three-course dinner, served to brighten our spirits. There were speeches and toasts by the different captains of the teams and members of the faculty, and the day ended very happily.

In April we entertained the Seniors at a banquet given in the gymnasium. The tables were decorated with large Panama hats, in which were bunches of violets tied with American beauty tulle. The place-cards were little rolls of paper, tied with purple ribbon to represent diplomas, inside of which were written the menus. Little kewpies, dressed in cap and gown, were given to the Seniors. An orchestra played while the courses were served, and toasts were given by different members of the class and faculty.

One of the most enjoyable events of this year was the class picnic which Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler did not give us.

The last part of our Junior year was overshadowed by "Finals," which had not happened before in that shape in the history of the school. We had only had monthly quizzes before, and it was with fear and trembling that we prepared for these examinations; but we all managed to get through.

Sights and Insights

The happiest day of that year was the last of school when we went into the North Junior Room, where Dr. Rondthaler, after talks from all the faculty, gave us our marks for the year, and we knew that at last we were really Seniors. We rushed out into the hall where the Seniors were standing with their caps and gowns. They let us have them for a while, and we felt that it was the proudest moment of our lives.

When we returned in the fall, and went to Senior Annex to live, we felt our importance very much. Then our processions in chapel formed a prominent part of each day's exercises, especially so because it had been said this class was not noted in vocal music. But we showed that we could sing and did it with a right good will.

Soon after we got back we ordered our caps and gowns, and lived in a state of expectation until they finally came on October 22d. Of course we were anxious to get them on, and as soon as we did so Miss Lehman took us to walk up around Court-House Square. Our excitement was at its height when we walked into the dining-room, at lunch, with them on, and were applauded by the school. That night we marched out on the campus, and, after singing a very solemn dirge, we burned our old hats, and felt that we had at last attained the full dignity of Seniorhood.

On the 31st of October, Carolina and Davidson played football here, and we enjoyed going to the game that afternoon. At night the Carolina Glee Club was here, and, after the concert, we entertained them and the teams by a reception given in the college parlors.

A few weeks later Gertrude Vogler entertained the class. We spent a very pleasant afternoon playing rook. Then very delicious refreshments were served in our class colors, the favors being little Senior caps filled with candy, with a beautiful gold hatpin stuck in them to use in our own caps.

After Christmas we began to get ready for the mid-term "Finals." After much study they are over at last. We are now beginning on essays, and by that we know that commencement is beginning to loom up on our horizon; and we are already looking forward to the home-stretch with much happiness.

Class Prophecy

To

LOUISE ROSS, NYAMAISU, SOUTH AFRICA,

FROM

DOROTHY GAITHER, MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

MAY 15, 1920.

DEAR LOUISE:

I was certainly glad to hear from you, and to know that some of your pet insects have not been your death. I simply can not get used to the idea of your going in for "bugology," as we would have said in those happy, irresponsible days at Salem.

You must have remembered how I love to talk, when you asked me to tell you of what old '15 is doing in the world, and now you must take the consequences, and pay the extra postage.

I don't wonder that you haven't kept up with us, living in Nowhere as you do, but when one lives in a large city, as I do, one hears all the news.

The most astonishing thing I've heard lately is that GERTRUDE VOGLER has gone to Labrador to teach the Eskimos the beauties of the aesthetic. Now, that's what I call an example of a person growing so interested in a study that they continue it after college, don't you? Well, the course that has done me more good than all the others I took at Salem was the art of dressing. As JANE HADEN used to say, "At home rapid dressing is an accomplishment, but at school it is a necessity." And isn't this a development! LOUISE WILLIAMS is doing missionary work in the North Carolina mountains.

Then there is our SUSANNE, who, as you might know, would be managing something, has stopped teaching Domestic Science, and now demonstrates it by sending her stalwart brick mason off to work with the most scientifically balanced lunches imaginable. You know, LOUISE BUSHONG graduated in Domestic Science, too, but she is now a New York policewoman. Her tendency always was towards law and order, wasn't it?

You remember how we always wondered what JANIE and GLADYS would do when they had to separate. Well, the answer is, they didn't: they are running a tea room in Santa Fe, and making a great success of it, though I've heard that the customers grow somewhat impatient at times while JANIE and GLADYS look lovingly into each other's eyes.

How sure some of us were that Fame had marked us for her own! We were not so far wrong, for the law firm of "CARROLL & HAWKINS" is becoming quite prominent. That's just as it should be, isn't it? For ELLA REA's characteristic was "Never a thought unuttered," and ROSIE could never be inaudible for five minutes. JIMMIE HADLEY has been appointed Minister to France. JIMMIE was always terribly politic. LIB DAVIS is now Secretary of the Navy, and is never seen without a tiny dreadnaught model under her arm. A little surprising, isn't it; she was always so meek and mild? You remember, that was the reason she got along with SUSANNE so well.

You see, women have been accorded equal rights with men, and this is mostly due to ANNIE EFIRD's efforts. She and Mrs. Pankhurst are now resting from their labors, but expect to be up and doing in some other field soon. MILDRED WILCOX is doing the work for which she has always been fitted, teaching at Columbia. MILDRED gave her kindergarten teacher points on pedagogy at the tender age of six, I understand, and is by now fully qualified for enlightening young minds eager for wisdom. MARIE BRIETZ has now become the dean of the University of Shanghai; don't you remember how she could always answer when Mr. Heath asked for "something from the text"?

SENTELL was always so fond of distinguishing the class by her warbling, you know, and now she is singing in grand opera with Caruso. "How are the mighty fallen!" I do not mean SENTELL. I have just gotten a letter from SADIE, and in it she says that Love is the pinnacle of bliss in life—an extremely original statement (?). But, you know, we never could change her belief that love and kisses make as substantial a diet as friendship and steak.

CAROLINE ROBINSON is writing popular novels, which sell enormously, but she says that she is not satisfied with this; that she is trying to complete her work upon the Fourth Dimension. CAROLINE was always such a worker! Our dignified RACHEL is mayoress of Omaha; that is, her husband is mayor, but we all know who's who.

You know "we all" were going to Europe the summer of 1915 if you had not betaken yourself to the wilds of Africa. Well, PAULINE went the next year—I suppose she wrote you about it—and now she has the habit, takes a party every year, and can be impressively silent in three languages. Think how our PAULINE has grown, when she could never even buy her ticket at school! BLANCHE ALLEN is teaching music, with a method all her own. It is said to be splendid, but I can find out nothing about it except that she looks so musical with her hair cut short. CHLOE FREELAND has written a series of essays on "The June Bug's Place in the Scheme of Things," which, I say, is another evidence of CHLOE's practical common sense.

MAE has acquired quite a reputation in vaudeville, but, when I saw her last winter, she said she was sure that classical dancing was her forte, and she was going in for that. You might have known that MAE would take life seriously. CORA REDDING has taken charge of a certain well-known newspaper of this state, as a mouthpiece for ANNIE EFIRD's views, and her own, on the subject of Man;—that his proper behavior is to say nothing and be nothing. Yes, I know, CORA's recipe for happiness used to be "a man, a twilight, and a book of poems," but she has changed—for the better, I think. You see, I am still an old maid, with a parrot rampant for my crest. LOLA is now dean of Salem; she has practically nothing to do, for, since they have instituted self-government, everything goes like clockwork. You know, they have what they call the "honor system."

Sights and Insights

ANNE TYSON has developed into the most excellent piano-tuner in the world, according to her statement, and ANNIE was never known to over-estimate her merits. "Little" LOUISE VOGLER is studying voice in Paris, but, from her letters, I fear that human nature is engaging more of her attention than music.

Well, I suspect you have wished you had never asked me to tell you this, for haven't I written you a book! Oh, I forgot to tell you that JANE HADEN is off again—to Norway and Sweden this time, and for three months only. You should see what a splendid housekeeper I am now. I can make accounts balance—after the third trial. Do come home soon, or you will know entirely too much.

With a heart full of love,

Your old fellow-sufferer,

DOROTHY GAITHER.

Statistics

RUTH TAYLOR is the "most popular" girl.
She sets all the hearts at "Salem" a-whirl.

For jokes, pranks, and all kinds of fun,
DEWITT CHATHAM is our "liveliest one."

There was chosen from among us CLYDE SHORE.
The "most athletic," though just a Sophomore.

The "most striking" is CAROLINE ROBINSON, you bet,
And this hasn't even been doubted as yet.

CLAUDIA SENTELL, with her winsome graces,
Is thought the "cutest" in all places.

Sights and Insights

BETSY BAILEY, the "most attractive" maid,
Possesses the ability for every trade.

The "best dancer" at "Salem" ALICE MCKENZIE must be:

If you dance with her we think you'll sure agree.

If you want the girl who's the "funniest" in school,

Go to HARRIET GLOVER, she's the one, as a rule.

MARY TRICE CLEWIS, the "most stylish," you see,
Though that's not all, for she's sweet as can be.

AGNES PARTRICK, "neat" as a pin,
Imagines disorder would be a "sin."

Sights and Insights

The "typical Freshman" is ELEANOR GATES,
This is quite true, and no "freak of the fates."

"Who is the 'most typical Sophomore?'" you ask
EMILIE DICKEY, the president of the class

The "most typical Junior," we can easily say,
For there is none more so than RUBY RAY,

Of our "most dignified Senior"
We are truly proud,
For she was chosen from
Twenty-eight, and that's quite a crowd.

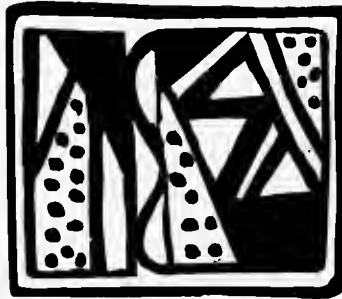

RETH PADDISON, so "studious,"
With books always near,
So when "exams" come she
Sure has no fear.

Sights and Insights

MARJORIE BARNES, at "Salem," the "prettiest" one.
With a beautiful smile that always means fun.

If you doubt that LESSIE LEMONS is the "handsomest" kind,
Look at her picture and you will change your mind.

Reorganization of the Literary Societies

THE decision of the Hesperian and Euterpean Literary Societies to effect a complete reorganization was a wise move to make, and both organizations start out with a new Constitution, a new roll of membership, and a new determination to place the societies on a higher plane of endeavor. The faculty of Salem has expressed in a practical manner its desire to aid in the betterment of the organizations, and by so doing has given an impetus to thorough and dignified literary work.

We trust, therefore, that every student in the college will take an active and earnest part in this phase of college life. The girl who fails to join one of the societies eliminates from her course one of the most powerful agencies which go to make up the ideal college girl.

It is a trite but sound truism that the individual who does anything worth doing is that individual who has a certain definite purpose in view and allows nothing to deviate him from it. Mindful of this, we feel confident that Hesperians and Euterpeans will strive for the very best in literary endeavor, and that a healthful and beneficial rivalry between them will result.

In order to make possible a plan of reorganization Miss Caroline Porter Robinson, '15, and Miss Annie James Hadley, '15, Presidents of the Euterpean and Hesperian Literary Societies, appeared before a meeting of the faculty, and presented two requests to that body. The first was, that the societies be granted the privilege of holding their meetings on some particular night during the week, to be known as "Society Night"; and, second, that all members doing legitimate work in the societies be given credit in the Department of English. After a thorough discussion by the faculty the requests were unanimously granted.

Thursday night of each week will be set apart for the exclusive use of the members of the societies. With the aid of a special faculty committee, appointed by President Rondthaler, a new Constitution has been devised for the societies. Only students in the college department will be eligible to membership, and a program of literary merit will be carried out each week.

The Y. W. C. A.

THIS has been a year of growth and influential work in the college life. Several of the cabinet members, including the president, attended the Blue Ridge Conference in the summer, and their ideas and suggestions have been very helpful throughout the year. The membership roll numbers fifty-six, which is a good percentage of the college students.

The different committees have done good work, especially the Social Service Committee, which has been very successful with the Shamrock Mill girls.

The officers came back a day or two early, and were at the station to meet the new girls and welcome them to "Salem." Other cabinet girls served tea and sandwiches to the girls as they arrived; the tables were attractively placed on the Society Hall porch. In this way, the new girls were brought into close touch with the Y. W. C. A. from the beginning.

A reception was given the first Saturday night, on the upper campus. Dainty refreshments were served, and a program of games and music was carried out.

The Christmas bazaar was a success—the articles sold being made by the girls themselves. The money realized was divided equally between the war-stricken Belgians and a poor family of Salem. A basket of clothes was also given the latter.

A notable improvement in the meetings themselves is that the members now voluntarily lead the meetings.

It is the prayer of the officers of 1915, that the Y. W. C. A. of their college may continue to grow in usefulness, and that it may serve as a spiritual help to all who may come under its influence.

Salem Day

On February 4th, 1915, Salem Day was celebrated by the college and academy.

The day began with special chapel exercises, followed by classes, but at 3 o'clock the excitement started. A loving-cup had been offered by Barber's Book Store, to be given every year to the winning basket-ball team of either the Euterpean or Hesperian Literary Society. The Hesperians were victorious, thereby gaining the cup.

Next, there was a grand rush for the library, where each class was to give a "stunt." The Freshmen presented a ludicrous mock circus. The Seniors held a class reunion in 1940, each member representing her possible future destiny. Then the Juniors gave a symphony concert, the orchestra being composed of instruments ranging from tin horns to a beautiful gilded "harp" (which had been made by Mr. Burrage). But the best was yet to come, for the Sophomores treated us to a real negro minstrel, and Grey, Bailey, Ross, and Fenton, as endmen, amused us with jokes. Then the Goddess of Liberty entered, and the performance ended with the patriotic songs of all nations.

The Sonnet Cycle of 1915

I

Each with a suit-case, on a summer's day,
We came to Salem, quite subdued in mien.
Our parents thought new teachers, change of scene,
Would urge us farther on the flowery way
Of knowledge. And all those who knew us say
We were by far the greenest of the green
Of all the Freshman classes they had seen
Or ever hope to see ere they grow gray.
Full soon we changed; ere yet the snows had gone
Our class showed not by any look or sign
That oft we did for our own homes repine,
And that we still were Freshmen quite forlorn.
So timid and so good we were that year
That to the teachers we became most dear.

II

When autumn came, again we took our place
At school; but, where a Freshman stood before,
So pleased and proud, behold a Sophomore!
How glad we were! Then we, with quickened pace,
Took up the now familiar work; with grace
Delved into ancient languages and lore;
Envied the caps and gowns the Seniors wore;
And life presented us a smiling face.
Of course we studied, but our chief concern,
No matter what was done or left undone,
Was not, I grieve to state, what we could learn,
But out of what thing we could get most fun!
For what's the use of working so intensely
When we could be enjoying ourselves immensely?

III

Our Junior year a different course we took:
No more for us such frolics, midnight feasts,
As Sophomores like. More dignified, we ceased
Such joys, and wore a much more studious look,
And ne'er were seen without some weighty book.

Sights and Insights

Then, as the "finals" neared, our zeal increased,
And, praying that from care we be released,
Each crammed her brain in some secluded nook,
But as the year drew nearer to its close,
And we looked back on all that it had brought—
All the good times, the joys, and little woes—
We felt 'twas not in vain that we had wrought
So faithfully and well to gain more knowledge;
And voted "Salem" best of every college.

IV

Seniors at last! Seniors! Our dream come true!
No words can give our feelings. Oh, how grand
To live in Annex, long our Promised Land!
'Tis nearness lends enchantment to that view!
Our caps and gowns were joys forever new!
And now we've done all that we often planned.
Old '15's cycle now indeed is spanned:
We've done all Senior classes wish to do,
Farewell to schooldays, now a long farewell—
We stand now at the parting of the ways
Farewell, my class; the future years shall tell
The sequel of our happy college days:
And may these words a sunny omen cast
On old '15, "out in the world at last!"

Clippings From "Salem Daily Post"

INTRIGUE OF FEASTERS EXPOSED

THE unusual actions of an untrusty band were observed, and a plot suspected. The surmise was correct, and the supposed plan culminated at midnight. The band was caught red-handed, and in their possession was found an assortment of ham sandwiches, pickles, and cakes. Upon investigation they proved that these had not been stolen, and the object of their meeting being merely to satisfy the palate, and involving nothing treacherous, the verdict pronounced was temporary confinement.

THE UNINVITED GUESTS

It has been rumored abroad that on the night of a notable wedding a body of guests appeared clad in coats of many colors. From the watchman's report, "Annex" stood deserted, windows wide open, and footprints on the sand around—also a noticeable stiffness in Senior processional next morning! A wild guess might be made as to who saw the bride.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY TALENT FOR BENEFIT OF ANNUAL

The singer of the evening was Miss Mae Nickels, who won the hearts of the audience with her expressive voice. The most effective number was "Forty-Nine Bottles Hanging on the Wall," in which she put so much expression. Especially pathetic was the last part when she sang of only one bottle being left.

Miss Corinne Morrison and Miss Annie Efird gave a beautiful exhibition of the modern dances. Particularly effective was the Polka and Gavotte done in Hungarian costume. The only criticism to be made is that the Fox-trot was done too fast, but this may be due to the fact that the Junior Russian Orchestra, which accompanied, is unfamiliar with anything except classical music.

Miss Mary Grey read very beautifully the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet."

The program was brought to a close by Lucy Booe's rendering "Home, Sweet Home" on a Jew's harp. The money realized was forty-nine cents.
